Married to a Vicomte.

A wedding of interest in the musical circles of New England, and particularly of Boston, Providence and St. Albans, took place in Providence, May 15, when Miss Mary Agnes Patterson of that city was married to Vicomte A. de Chabanues la Palice.

Miss Patterson, who formerly resided is Boston, was known as a pianist in musical circles. She has studied in Europe under the famous Leschetizky of Vienna. Last summer Miss Patterson was a guest of Count and Countess Lerchenteld at Schlos Koefering in Bavaria, and was entertained at several of the and castles of the Bavarian aristocracy. The Viconite A. de Chabannes la Palice is a descendant of one of the oldest amilies of France, dating back to 810. The vicomte's uncle, the Marquis de Chabannes la Palice, is the present head of the family and lives at the chateau la Palice between Moulin and Lyons, It here that the young couple will be entertaine I after their marriage. Having discharged his obligations to the Prench army, the Viconite A, de Chabannes la Palice came to America to follow his profession. He is now an instructor in the Herreshoff school of music and languages in Providence. The bride is the daughter of the late Vermont, who have gone out from her borders to acquire fame and fortune elsewhere. Her brother is John T. Paterson, St. Albans manager of the Postal Telegraph company.

Californians Eat Vermont Sugar. An old fashioned maple sugar party was given in Oakland, Cal., Monday evening, May 10, by the Vermont Association of the Golden Gate, and was greatly enjoyed by the 112 persons pre gut. The finest quality of pure maple sigar and syrup direct from Water' ary was served to wax on ice, together with ther entables. The party was similar those held in Vermont in the spring-

The Vermont Association of the Golden Gate was organized in Oakland, February 8 under the name of the Vermont Association of Alameda County, and already has a membership of 160. Meetings are held on the second Monday evening of each month.

The sugar party was attended by Vermonters from all the bay cities and other parts of central California. Short talks were made by S. A. Avers (West Pawlet), the Rev. John W. Buckham (Burlington), A. Ellsworth (Rutland), the Rev. F. L. codspeed (Montpelier), E. K. Voodry (Montpelier), Maj. Edwin W. Woodward (Tunbridge), David T. Hard |lericho), the Rev. Melville Tenney (Morristown), Seldon C. Editor in Trouble.

Attorney General John G. Sargent of the Supreme court charging that David W. Hildreth, the editor of the Newport Express and Standard, committed contempt of court in an editorial published a his paper on March 5th, in which he attacks a decision made by Judge Watpany vs. Boston and Maine R. R. decision was in favor of the railroad ad upheld them in their stand of exading the plaintiff company from installing instruments in their stations where the New England Tel. & Tel. ompany had lines.
The editorial, says the information, says that the decision might have been espected, and is in harmony with monopoly, ignoring the wants of the people and entering to the big concerns. In the pinion of the editor, there is no reasonable excuse for the decision. The decision Judge Watson reversed the decision of the lower court, which was in favor the plaintiff, and gave judgment for the B. & M., thus, as the Express and Standard states, making a virtual victory for the New England Tel. & Tel. The information of Mr. Sargent says that the editorial charges the Supreme court with corrupt and unlawful conduct, and is an insult to the

A subpoena was issued signed by Chief Judge John W. Rowell, ordering the defendant to appear in Supreme ourt and show reason why he should not be adjudged in contempt. On Thursday Chief Judge Rowell announced that e sentence of the court would be a fine of $200 and costs of prosecution.

An Unusual Romance.

That the expression, "Love will find way," is no meaningless mass of words was probably never more conclusively emonstrated than in a marriage which ccurred in Lebanon, N. H., the other ay. An Italian boy about 16 years of ge was invited to attend the Paris exosition by the brother of his stepother. Here he met the daughter of s host who was then 15 years of age. he Italian could not speak French and e girl could not speak Italian so when they fell in love, matters were somewhat implicated, although they managed to anderstand each other to the extent of n engagement. He was to go away and earn some money and when he sent or her she was to come and marry him. he boy went back to Italy with deterination and, not being very successful his ventures, came to America to seek s fortune about three years ago. He worked in a fruit store for a time and hally went into business for himself succeeding to such an extent that he is ow a large merchant. A short time go he sent for his bride, the girl whom had not seen for ten years. True to her omise, she traveled across the ocean ne and finally landed safe and sound Lebanon, where she was met by her outhful lover, whom she did not recogze at first. In the meantime she had arned Italian and he had studied reach, so in two languages they greeted each other and were married.

A Woman's Views on Farming. At a recent meeting of the Bennington range one of the lady members, Mrs. Mattie Jewett, read a paper on "How I would Run a Farm if I were a Man." The following is an extract from her

"I should have good running water at ouse and barn if possible. I should try and keep the farm well fenced, building a ittle new wire fence every year till all was in good condition.

"Nothing spoils a man's temper, wastes his time and produces so many swear words from a man as chasing Stock that have broken through poor Masonic circles.

fences. I should want to keep all the good stock the farm would care for and raise everything I could that is consumed, for ready money comes in handy. should want to raise some garden truck and small fruits to sell at a time in the summer when money is not coming in freely and I know from experience there is a good profit in them. I would raise some poultry, thoroughbred preferred, for fresh eggs and broilers, also to help the women folks buy the latest merry widows and peach basket hats. I should try and keep farm work ahead, do all the fall plowing possible, get up a good wood pile in the winter. Improve rainy days mending farm implements, harnesses, etc. Get out early mornings and start machinery running, not at three in the morning, however. "You have all perhaps heard the story of the new man who hired out in a new place where the men had to arise at 3 o'clock. He left and when asked his reason said that when he was going to position. hed nights he used to meet himself coming down mornings to milk."

Brigham Will Contested.

There is going to be a contest over the will of the late Elizabeth Fay Brigham, sister of the late Robert D. Brigham, who left his millions for the establishment of the hospital for incurables. inder the terms of her will the bulk of her property is left to the same project Mr. and Mrs. George Patterson and was and also to Vermont institutions. When born in St. Albans, where she lived until the will came before the Norfolk probate 1897. She is one of the many daughters court for allowance, objection was filed by Mrs. Susan A. Cogan of Chicago, a niece of Mrs. Brigham and her only living relative through her attorney. According to the provisions of the will Mrs. Cogan, who makes the objection, is beneficiary in the sum of $2000 a year for life. There are also bequests of $23,-000 to friends and $2000 to the St. Albans hospital at St. Albans, and $5000 to the University of Vermont after which the remainder of the property is to be made into a trust fund, the income to go to the Robert B. Brigham hospital for incurables.

An Unusual Occurrence.

A woman of Swanton Center recently went into a room in which windows were filled with house plants, to find a black and white warbler industriously climbing a small orange tree and looking over the plants with painstaking care, gleaning a luncheon from hidden ins cts. Calling another member of the household, the two watched the movements of the active, handsome little fellow in striped costume which seemingly had no fear of their near approach to within less than two feet. A hand was very carefully and slowly put out among the blossoms, and the tiny bird hopped on a finger on his way to another plant. After about an hour of busy engagement among the foliage of the three windows, the little visitor found himself by the open window through which he had come into the room, and flew to a nearby lilac tree where he was last seen still scanning every tiny crevice of bark and bud for delectable morsels of food.

Free Mail Delivery for Newport.

Newport is likely to enjoy the benefits of postal free delivery in the near future. adlow, has filed an information with The postoffice comes under an act enabling the department to establish such routes where the receipts are over $10,-000. A postoffice inspector who looked over the ground was very favorably impressed and gave some encouragement to the officials. If the department sees fit to establish a free delivery route there, it quire the service of two carriers and a substitute. There would be two deliveries a day to the residential section and three deliveries to the business section. The village trustees have also expressed their willingness to comply with the requirements of the department by numbering the streets and posting street signs.

Burgiar Shot at Hyde Park.

A burglar in the store of G. B. Foss at Hyde Park about 1 a. m. Saturday was shot by Archie Billings and lived only two hours. An investigation of the store showed that the man had rifled the money drawer of its contents and had gathered a considerable amount of merchandise together to carry away. He probably was about to leave with the booty when he was detected. Many people about town saw the man and no one is able to throw any light on his identity. He was probably a professional from some distance. He was a smoothed shaven medium sized man of about 35 years. He was conscious but would not tell his name.

Elroy Kent's Exceptions.

The bill of exceptions upon which the case of Elroy Kent, recently convicted of the murder of Delia Congdon of East Wallingford, will be taken to supreme court, has been filed with County Clerk H. A. Harmon at Rutland. The respondent's counsel objects to the introduc-tion as an exhibit by the prosecution of the Congdon barn door on which Kent was supposed to have cut his initials, also the comparison of the letters "E. K." on the handle of a lawn mower used by Kent at Waterbury State hospital for the insane, the same letters cut on the barn door. The case will be argued at Rutland in November.

Baseball Player Married. As the outcome of a romance which began at Montpelier seminary, where they were students, James C. Ball, catcher for the Boston National league baseball team, and Miss Florence Cashen, one of the prettiest girls in Montpelier, were married May 18, at Burlington. Owing to the different religious beliefs of the contracting parties, a special dispensation was necessary for the marriage ceremony, which was performed by Rev. J. M. Cloarec, acting bishop of the Burlington diocese. Mr. and Mrs. Ball left for Boston, where the bridegroom will join his team.

Fell from Window and Killed. Striking, it is said, at a fly on the sill of a window on the third story of her house in Brattleboro, May 15, Mrs. J. E. Hall, aged 56, missed hitting the insect, lost her balance and fell three stories to the ground, 60 feet below. Her body just missed coming in contact with a bulkhead and a concrete walk. One of her hips was fractured and she received internal injuries. Mrs. Hall was hurriedly removed to the Memorial hospital, where she died next morning.

Newport Merchant Dead.

George H. Flint of Newport, 50 years old, senior member of Gilman & Co., the largest dry goods store in Orleans county, died May 19, after a few days illness with pleura-pneumonia. He is survived by his wife, who was the widow of George C. Gilman, founder of the store. Mr. Flint was prominent in

A rare act of bravery occurred recently on a Boston & Maine passenger train due in Bellows Falls at 6.15 p. m., which was running at a high rate near South Charlestown station. The engineer noticed a child, Thelma Frost, aged 17 months, on the track. The engine was reversed, but too late to stop. The engine fireman, Edward Atwood, ran along the running board, leaned out on the cowcatcher and snatched the child from death. Traveling men and passengers tried in vain to congratulate Atwood, but he claimed he had done nothing remarkable.

B. E. Merriam, formerly principal of Hardwick Academy and graded school, and later located at Bellows Falls, and Hackensack, N. J., has been engaged as principal of the Johnson Normal school, to succeed Dr. E. D. Collins. Mr. Merriam is a native of Elmore, and by thorough preparation and experience in school work is eminently fitted for the

Mrs. Addie Crossman, of Shrewsbury, the mother of 19 children, who was recently found guilty by a jury in Rut-land county court of assaulting Poormaster J. G. Lord, of Shrewsbury, has been fined $25 and costs by Judge E. L. Waterman. Sentence was later suspended and she was placed in the charge of the probation officer. In view of the light sentence the case will not be taken to supreme court as expected.
